'The Valley of the Moon" is an achievement in story telling by the cleverest American story teller of the day. Transposed into films it has become a fairy tale. - Motion Picture World.

It makes a splendid picture, and does not, as is so often the case, lase by being thrown upon the screen. Mainly this is because fack London writes red-blooded, stirring tales, with pienty of action on every page, and this is just the kind of story that can be told in films.—Motion Ficture News.
